WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT

ETHAN WAPLES

Chair, MGTI Department
UH-Downtown

On behalf of the executive board, I am excited to invite you to SWAM 2023. We are planning a re-envisioned and refocused conference to enhance your experience through 1) meaningful feedback on your scholarly work, 2) networking with academics and practitioners, and 3) high-quality professional development. Join us in Space City for engaging discussions of management teaching and research, then spend your evenings at the Houston Rodeo, an NBA game, or one of Houston's many fine dining venues.

TRACK INFORMATION

See Submission Instructions for More Information

Do not expect an extension to the submission deadline of 11:59pm on November 1, 2022

Sep 15 - Submission Portal Opens
Nov 01 - Deadline for Submissions
Nov 15 - Nominations for Outstanding Educator Due
Dec 05 - Decision Letters Sent to Authors
Feb 01 - Abridged Papers Due to Proceedings Editor

FULL-PAPER TRACKS

Full papers include empirical research papers, conceptual and theoretical papers, editorials and viewpoints, practice and white papers, case studies, and review papers. At least one author must register for and attend the conference to present the paper in a session, or the paper will be removed from the program. While it is understood that the vast majority of conference submissions are "working papers," manuscripts that appear incomplete will be moved from the full-paper track to the developmental-paper track (see below).

PANELS, SYMPOSIA, & WORKSHOPS

Each year, the SWAM Board seeks to enhance the value of conference attendance through select high-impact panels, symposia, and workshops. Examples include the doctoral consortium, deans panel, and journal editors panel, as well as those facilitated by SWAM members.

DEVELOPMENTAL-PAPER TRACK

Scholars attend SWAM to showcase their research early in its development to find suitable collaborators and coauthors, get valuable feedback from their peers, and gain insights into their research questions. Developmental papers can be any style or track suitable for SWAM (described above), and may include papers at any level of completion. Please note if your submission is a poster session.
